

Research the history of your house

Wednesday 31st March, 7:30pm

(Zoom session opens from 7pm)

Ivan is a well-known historian and author.

In this Zoom session he will be demonstrating and discussing various ways that the history of a house or property might be investigated.

He will include the interpretation of Deeds, maps, manorial records and other sources that will help in building up a history not only of the property and, when relevant, the earlier occupants of that property or street.

With libraries, record offices and heritage centres still closed there will be an emphasis on material that is readily available online. This will enable participants to undertake some individual research from home during this continuing period of lock-down.
