

Listen to Wildlife with Mike Challis

Wednesday 28th April, 7:30pm

(Zoom session opens from 7pm)

Mike is a Sound Artist, Maker and Educator. He specialises in making sound and video installations about wildlife habitats and has developed the SoundHide to immerse people in these sounds.

In this Zoom session he will talk about listening and ways to listen, something we have all been doing more of this last year.

Mike will play videos and sounds of some of the environments he has recorded and help you recognise the sounds made by birds and other animals that live in these habitats. You will begin to learn which species inhabit which types of habitat and hopefully be encouraged to engage with your local habitat with renewed listening abilities.
